

RECEIVED

FEB 20 2003

ABSTRACT

Technology Center 2100

A1 A data processing system, apparatus and method are provided to verify and validate data. Cryptographic processes employ keys to encrypt the data, check the data and prevent tampering with the data. The data may include header information such as compressed contents or an expansion processing program used to process the data.